Golan shelling continues

By United Press International

The Golan Heights front exploded into artillery battles between Syrian and Israeli forces for the 10th consecutive day today. The Israeli general debated whether they would affect the coming talks in Washington on disengaging the forces.

The heavy shelling of the Golan front began Jan. 21 when the United Nations ceasefire failed the October war.

McClellan plans office bid

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — (UPI) — Walter J. Hickel, former U.S. interior secretary, says he will try to reacquire the Alaska governorship he gave up in 1966 when he joined the Nixon administration.

His nomination in this year's primary election would probably set up another race against Democrat Gov. William A. Egan, whom he defeated in 1966. Hickel was a Republican. He left the Nixon cabinet in 1970.

House votes 'no' to HRC funding

BOISE — The House said no Wednesday to a supplemental appropriations for the Human Rights Commission.

First, House members voted 23-3 to kill the extra money to carry the commission into the 1975 fiscal year. Then, after voting to consider the measure, they killed it on a clear vote of 28-3.

Rep. Paul Werth, R-Boise, who said he would support the supplemental bill, but he said it would be the last vote he would cast to help the agency if it became involved in the type of "troubling, contentious" cases.

Rep. E. B. McHan, R-Ketchum, said the commission should be denied the funds because of its role in certain areas. He said it was involved in a case where North Idaho College had fired a teacher who was seeking his job back.

Now McHan said the state is being asked to help support the teacher's case through the commission and help support the college in its defense.

Following the vote to reconsider the motion, Rep.

William Roberts, R-Buhl, co-chairman of the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee, urged passage of the measure.

He said that to cut off the commission from funds would only be "killing a whipping boy" of the people involved in filing charges with the commission.

Rep. Paul Werth, R-Boise, also said he would support the supplemental bill. But he said it would be the last vote he would cast to help the agency if it became involved in the type of "troubling, contentious" cases.

Sport benefits told Buhl club

By LORAYNE SMITH
Times-News writer

BUHL — Competition is the life blood of our free enterprise system, the Buhl Kiwanis Club was told Wednesday noon.

Jon Jund, Buhl High School athletic director, outlined the school's athletic program, including the club's weekly luncheon meeting of the R and R Cafe.

He said competition "goes along with our life-style" and students will have to compete in the business world for jobs and salaries. Athletics, he said, teaches them how to compete.

The director also believes athletics teaches young people how to work together, how to be good winners and hopefully non-violent losers. Learning of sportsmanship and discipline are other important facets of the Kiwanis program, he said.

There are many persons who have the ability but cannot compete because they have no discipline," Jund said.

Not everyone can or wants to compete in an interscholastic athletic program and expansion of intramural sports is necessary, Jund said. Trends are changing and students no longer want to be spectators, but to participate, he said.

Lack of time and facilities hampers the intra-mural program, but Jund sees expansion in this area, especially for girls, as the club's weekly luncheon meeting of the R and R Cafe.

Good start falls

PITTSBURG, Calif. (UPI) — Frank Lombardo shot a hole-in-one on the first hole of the Pittsburg country club tournament and wound up with the 18 holes with a trophy for the highest 18-hole score—154. It was Lombardo's first game of golf.

Campus, Shoshone street 'streaked'

TWIN FALLS — Three streakers wearing only stockings caps, ties and tennis shoes zipped across the College of Southern Idaho campus Tuesday night.

The three males "ran by the girls' dorm across the baseball diamond across to the nurses' quarters and then off to the dorms," Shoshone editor of the CSI paper, "Horizon," said.

The streakers attracted attention by "screeching a lot as they went by, you know the regular streaking scream," Stinson said.

Taylor said: "I told all of the reported streakers, 'We feel strongly that streaking is indecent exposure.'

"I really don't intend to tolerate streakers on this campus. We'll take whatever measures are necessary to stop this activity."

The streakers are apprehended, Taylor said, "they'd be turned in to local authorities and disciplinary action would be taken on the college level. Since we have a college disciplinary committee it would be referred to them, and I suspect their action would be probation or possibly expulsion from the college."

It is not certain whether Tuesday's streakers were CSI students.

Taylor said that he didn't regard streaking as a "harmless prank. I think it is vulgar, I think it's in poor taste, it's indecent exposure as far as I'm concerned."

"There's a lot worse things a person could do," Stinson said. "They're not harming anybody. It's just like swallowing goldfish."

Stinson said he wasn't sure what the girls' reaction would be, but he said, "Most of the girls in the dorms are nursing students and I feel they have probably seen a naked man before."

Elsewhere, two male streakers were seen crossing Shoshone Street about 10:30 p.m. Wednesday. The men were reportedly in the late 20's, clean-shaven and wearing only medium length hair. They carried their clothes rolled under their arms for their barefoot streak across the street.

Shaky shakeup in Burley force

Alice's remark on the developments in Wonderland might just as well be applied to recent events on Burley's police force. Things seem to get "curiouser and curioser."

As events now stand a police officer — who the police chief, the mayor and City Council agree ought not be on the force, remains on duty today. Instead, the police chief is gone.

The reason the officer stays at the job is not disagreement on his qualifications or lack of them, but a desire by the mayor and City Council to let the officer remain at work until his first year passes. A year's tenure qualifies him for police officer certification which presumably would help him get other jobs on other forces.

But even though the parties agree the officer should be terminated, the mayor was angered when the police chief proceeded to do just that when the mayor was out of town. Apparently the mayor had had the termination of the chief in mind instead.

Even though the mayor agreed with the chief, that the officer had to go the mayor overruled the chief, reinstating the officer. The council, concerned that the mayor had acted illegally, promptly put its seal of approval on the mayor's decision to override the police chief.

The police chief then resigned, apparently to the relief of at least the mayor.

So the officer gets his certification, the chief gets the officer's eventual removal, the mayor gets the chief and the councilmen get to serve on another committee to study problems of communication.

Curiouser and curioser.

To make some sense out of the situation, somebody needs to clarify just who legally can fire people in Burley.

We can find no place in the Idaho Code in which a police chief has the power to fire anybody. State law, however, does provide for the mayor — under the mayor-council form of government — to fire any appointed employee provided the council agrees by a vote of one-half of the council plus one.

Alternatively, the council may remove any appointive officer by a unanimous ballot, even without the mayor's support.

If our understanding of the law is correct, it would appear the officer was not fired legally in the first place. So instead of reinstating the employee, the mayor presumably was only informing the fellow that he was still on the payroll, no matter what the chief said.

If so, there was no reason for the council to take a vote on the reinstatement at all. Of course, since the mayor and the council wanted to terminate the employee at the end of his year of service, I had to vote on the termination.

So there really was no reason for the police chief to hand in his resignation, since the mayor was acting entirely properly, and the officer won't serve much longer. Perhaps there might not been reason for the council to ask for the chief's resignation, since the chief assumed power he did not have.

So much for the law. Once legal niceties are set aside, it does appear the chief had a point or two. "Any executive department head should have a great deal to say about who is hired and fired in his department in order to effectively control his employees." Apparently the chief's evaluation of the employee was supported by the mayor and the council who agreed the officer ought not be on the force.

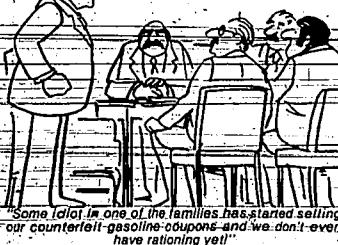

And the chief may have had a strong case in not wishing to see the officer serve to the end of his year's term. After all, why should the city encourage an officer it felt unacceptable for its own police force to receive certification? Would that not just be shifting an undesired officer to other unsuspecting cities?

One final consideration is worth mentioning. The mayor apparently reinstated the officer partly in an attempt to encourage the police chief to resign.

We might ask why the mayor did not take the more direct route by simply recommending to the council that the chief be terminated with the hope that the councilmen agreed.

Police officers, even those who chiefs, mayors and councils don't want around, ought not be used as pawns in city power plays.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Some idiot in one of the families has started selling our counter-gasoline-coupons and we don't even have rationing yet!"

(C) New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — This being spring in Washington, it is time for this column to present its annual What's-a-nice-guy-like-you... doing-in-a-town-like-this awards.

These prizes are given to ten persons who have conspicuously risen above the temptation to behave the way most people in their positions in Washington usually behave. For an award winner to have his name printed without accompaniment of criticism is an achievement.

Finding ten winners this year was hard work. Some one of our winners, in fact, were chosen because they were sympathetic figures rather than authenticated nice guys. Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz is in this category.

He may, for all we know be the neatest guy in town, or he may be something different. It just happens that the only time your judges see him — and this is a frank admission of journalistic incompetence — is when he is sitting before angry congressional committees insisting that rationing tempts me to believe that anyone so firmly wedged to an argument is probably wrong, but Butz stirs an inexplicable sympathy.

Similar considerations are behind the award to Herbert Stein, of the President's Council of Economic Advisors. All of us have seen Stein on television announcing that the economy is going to start behaving absolutely lim-dandy any week now, and looking acutely miserable.

Many people will doubtless be shocked at an award to G. Gordon Liddy, but consider Liddy an unarguable deserver. He is the only figure in the entire Watergate gang who stuck to his principles under pressure.

Secretary of the Treasury George Shultz would qualify for the award any year. He gets it this year for reminding us it is still possible for a big man in government to have a bad year without ceasing to be a big man.

The fifth award goes to Senator Mansfield, who is everything a president of the United States should be. Is he therefore never seriously entertained? Washington as a potential candidate?

Frank Sinatra also gets an award for refusing to turn his back on a friend. That is such a rare refusal in Washington the judges feel it must be

US, French tone down squabbling

(c) Chicago Daily News

WASHINGTON — Both sides in the French-American slugfest appear eager to moderate the tone of their differences.

But neither is yet prepared to yield on basic points in dispute.

French Ambassador Jacques Kozielko-Morizet said Monday the time has come "to approach the situation coolly, reasonably and with some lucidity." He added, "there has already been 'too much polemics.'

While the French are ready with the red carpet, the President of a friend nation, the ambassador told the overseas reporters here, his government rejects President Nixon's linking U.S. security commitments in Europe to questions of economics and trade.

The result of the Atlantic alliance's security for both Western Europe and the United States, and it has worked," Kozielko-Morizet said. "It is a good alliance. We are faithful to it. We want it to go on."

If the United States wants to expand it to include economic and other matters, a new charter will be needed," he said.

Earlier, the White House responded to a storm of adverse reaction in Europe to the President's harsh warning made in Chicago last Friday that Europe can't enjoy U.S. military support while refusing to co-operate on political and economic issues.

The President "made it very clear," Defense Press Secretary Gerald Warren said, that the European-American alliance is "important to the peace of the world, as well as to ourselves."

Warren went on to note that Nixon also pointed out the United States was "indispensable" to the security of Europe.

The French insist the alliance retain its collective security role, and not be saddled with other problems. The ambassador said only when a United Europe has been built can a partnership of equality be developed. Meanwhile, the French conception of the non-military relationship with the U.S. is "to have a European identity, not hostile to but different, from the U.S."

Kozielko-Morizet maintained that, despite the obvious dispute over fundamental aspects of the Atlantic relationship, there is no "major crisis," and that the differences can be handled with patience and goodwill.

LATEST defense gambit suspicious

WASHINGTON — Contrary to confessions by President Nixon that the House Judiciary Committee has gone far beyond the special prosecutor's office in requesting evidence, both are seeking — and have been denied — the same presidential conversations directly related to the Watergate cover-up.

One such conversation is Nixon's talk last April 16 with his then top aides; H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman. The White House refused to give that tape to John Dean, counsel to the Judiciary Committee's impeachment proceedings, follows a similar denial to special prosecutor Archibald Cox.

This, then, is the latest White House strategy: accuse Doar and his staff of making reckless demands for guidance, far beyond what is in their power against the President.

There is another, more subtle, tactic being Republicans on the Judiciary Committee who had been stung. Nixon supporters are infuriated over what they consider a brazen sabotage of the impeachment proceedings.

The core of the strategy is its contention that Jaworski has in hand, as Nixon told the Chicago Executives Club, "the full story of Watergate" and needs no more information. Similar aides had been spreading the Watergate word for 10 days. Thus, as often is the case, Nixon was repeating a well-orchestrated theme.

The theme stems from Jaworski's luncheon with members of the New York Times Washington bureau Feb. 10. The Times' new chairman, the second and published, was furious. Asked at lunch whether the Watergate conspiracy would ever be solved, Jaworski replied his prosecutors had pretty well solved it.

The White House seized that Times story as proof that the House Judiciary Committee needed only the documents given Jaworski. In fact, however, as of Feb. 14, Jaworski had been denied 27 additional tape recordings, and the number is larger today. Confrontation in the courts between Jaworski and the President was avoided only because the prosecution did not want to delay the Watergate indictments.

Not to fire John W. Dean III as White House counsel because he was cooperating with the investigators?

What had the President said to Haldeman and Ehrlichman? Had he discussed Petersen's recommendation that he fire them immediately while retaining Dean? Did he talk about his branch of Justice Esterson's psychiatric office, which only one day earlier he had ordered Petersen not to investigate? Were Dean's interviews with Watergate prosecutors discussed? Or was none of this mentioned?

Although the White House says the Oval Office tape was never a copy of tape on Sunday, April 16, tape was presumably replenished on Monday morning, April 16. If so, it could either implicate or exculpate the President.

Since the relevance of the April 16 tape cannot be determined, the House should demand documents to either Congress or the special prosecutor — seems highly suspicious. But the transparent motion that requests by the House investigators go far beyond demands of the special prosecutor, can only heighten that suspicion.

Thought For Today

A thought for this day: French philosopher Jean Rousseau said, "Nature never deceives us; it is always we who deceive nature."

"WHO NEEDS YOU?"

...to show that Congress and the special prosecutor were being denied the same information, Jaworski sent Doar a letter containing a list of evidence denied the

Colds develop within 2 days

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How long after exposure does it take to get a cold, and after getting one, at what point is there no longer danger of giving it to someone else? — Mrs. R.W.B.

In most cases a cold develops from 12- to 48-hours after exposure, and as long as the patient sneezes, coughs or has nasal drainage, it is possible to pass it along to someone else. In your case you probably picked up your cold from someone other than your husband.

Recent studies indicate that the hands are a common means of transmitting cold viruses. You have cold-wash your hands frequently. If you are around a person with a cold, do likewise. It isn't a guarantee, of course, but every precaution helps.

When you have a cold, the fact is that you have to wait to get over it, ordinarily a week or thereabouts. But you can do a few things to make yourself more comfortable.

If you have a fever, go to bed. Fever or not, aspirin or similar medication will lessen the misery.

There's still plenty of dispute about what C. cold studies at this time. Some studies support the idea that it helps. Anyway, it can't hurt you when you have a cold, and if you take it in the form of orange or tomato juice, it adds liquid to their part.

Do not start penicillin or antibiotics at the onset of a cold, because these drugs do not affect viruses, and colds are caused by viruses, not bacteria.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I used to weigh 230 pounds but reduced to 133 in eight months. I have lost any top weight I had several times. I have a few loose, soft, saggy, surplus skin hanging below my chin. What would be the best way to shorten plastic surgery? — J.M.H.

Plastic surgery is the only answer, what do you think of it and is it costly? — J.M.H.

Plastic surgery is the only solution. Massage, creams and such efforts cannot help because the skin has been stretched too much.

However, plastic surgery by competent surgeons produces excellent results. Cost varies, but discuss that with your doctor.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have glaucoma and use drops four times a day. I have been told that drinking tea and coffee is bad for my eyes as it causes eye pressure to build up. Does it really do so and should I leave coffee alone altogether? I love it at meals. — Mrs. D.M.

Both tea and coffee contain caffeine which is a stimulant, and this can raise eye pressure, especially if you happen to be sensitive to caffeine. However, I see no harm in a cup of either coffee or tea with your meals (you can't drink it all day). More than this might affect eye pressure. (There are also decaffeinated coffee preparations.)

US conducts draft lottery

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Selective Service conducted its sixth draft lottery Wednesday, but with the nation at peace and volunteers filling out military quotas, there is little cause for the concern by American youth.

The routine of the drawing was clear from the first, when Deputy Director John D. Dewhurst said there was no present emergency and that the president had no part in the lottery. The Congress, to "seek restoration of the induction authority" that expired July 1973.

Gone was the emotion that highlighted the first lottery staged in 1969 when hundreds of young people gasped and leered when their birthdates and priority numbers were read from capsules drawn from plastic drums.

Fewer than 20 dozen persons — all of them over 18 — were selected for the draft.

House approves $15 food credit

BOISE — The House gave its unanimous approval Wednesday to a one-shot tax relief package that will take about $3.25 million from the state's surplus.

House members suspended rules on the measure and passed it 53-0. It would extend for one more year the $15 grocery credit on state sales tax. It would also ensure that certain people who do not now qualify for the benefit receive it in the future.

The aim of the measure is to ensure the credit will remain in place for one more year. But the impact on the general fund budget is to make possible some other form of recurring tax relief or an additional pay increase proposal for state employees.

The House passed the tax relief bill less than 24 hours after agreeing to fund the program from the surplus instead of the general fund as had been planned.

Leadership led the effort Tuesday to amend the bill taking out the provision that the $15 credit would be permanent and substituting the provision that it will be in effect for one year. The Senate agreed 44-0.

Majority leader H. Ford Koch, R-Globe, said it would be dishonest to pass the tax relief package on a recurring basis because there wasn't enough money to pay for it from general fund money.

He made his remark after Rep. William Roberts, R-Buhl, co-chairman of the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee, said there was about $2.1 million left in the general fund above what the committee had recommended for program spending.

With the $3.25 million for the credit now funded from the surplus, however, that $2.1

Hospital
bond plan
in limbo

TWIN FALLS — No specific plans have been formulated yet for re-submission to voters of the expansion program for Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Building committee chairman R. W. Pierce said, "There is still a lot of study and work that has to be made before a specific recommendation is submitted to the board. Insured, we couldn't have another election before August, we felt we shouldn't make public statements because we haven't formulated any plans for sure."

Voters turned down the $4.6 million bond issue in February.

The earliest legal date for another vote is August 13.

The building committee report was made at the Monday hospital board meeting.

The board approved a hospital addition and equipment request of $16,000 for re-equipping the cafeteria and purchasing new equipment. Rosenbaum said after making the improvements, "we would entertain closing down the snack bar and letting the public use the cafeteria." He added that now the cafeteria was costing the hospital money to operate.

With the increase in business from the public, Rosenbaum said he felt the $10,000 invested in improvements could be recovered in one year. The cafeteria department adds to 6 p.m.

Lions plan
in Jerome

JEROME — The Jerome Lions Club plans to build a vandalism-proof restroom facility at the southwest corner of the North City Park.

Ver. Sullivan, Lions president, told the Jerome City Council Tuesday night his organization plans to use a glazed cinderblock which cannot be marked or scratched.

Hinged-prison-type fixtures will be used to reduce damage to the facility. Plumbing will be hidden under the main construction.

He estimated the total cost of the project at between $10,000 and $12,000. He asked the city to help with the cost or grant the club permission to erect the frame of the building and use it outside this year and possibly begin construction next year as more funds become available.

The council took the request under advisement.

Approval was given. Veda Becker, city librarian, to purchase a set of Encyclopaedia Britannica with revenue sharing money at a cost of $348.

Plaintiff awarded grain suit damages

JEROME: A Magic Valley warehouse has been awarded $7,571.54 in a trial Court in a suit to recover damages from a breach of contract.

Five women, seven men, the alleged plaintiff, and the attorney for the plaintiff, Morgan-Lindsay, Inc., and against Ed Wheeler, a Castleford farmer.

The suit alleged Wheeler agreed to sell his wheat to Morgan-Lindsay in July of 1973. When the contract was not fulfilled, the plaintiff sued.

The amount of the loss, the jury said, represented the difference between the amount agreed to in July and the amount Morgan Lindsay had to pay to obtain substitute grain to meet commitments made on the basis of its contract with Wheeler.

Richard K. Smith, Burley attorney, represented the plaintiff, and Theodore Delan Buhl, attorney for Wheeler.

Morgan-Lindsay operates six warehouses in Magic Valley handling beans, grain, and feed.

Cunningham heard the case, which is a test case to determine the legal binding power of the farm purchase contracts.

Court resolves criminal cases

TWIN FALLS — A Jerome youth was sentenced to five years in the Idaho State Penitentiary Monday following a conviction for assaulting a police officer by means of violence.

In sentencing Raymond Lee Cox, 18, Judge James M. Cunningham retained 120 days jurisdiction in the case, which means that he can change the sentence any time during the four-month period.

Cox pleaded guilty to the resisting charge on Feb. 20.

He was arrested on Dec. 3, 1973, and accused of kicking and attacking a Kimberly

police officer during the course of an attempted arrest for driving while under the influence on Nov. 30.

Under the 180-day retained jurisdiction provision, Judge

Cunningham will receive a report from prison counselors recommending retention or probation for Cox after he has undergone a period of observation.

Ochsner was sentenced to five years in the state penitentiary on the delivery of marijuana. A second count of delivery was then dismissed.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

There is nothing spectacular about today's hand. The contract is a humdrum four hearts which South brings home without any squeezes or end plays. He does take a finesse but everybody does.

Nevertheless the hand is worthy of lots of study because the winning play requires faultless technique.

South must start by ducking the first spade. West can follow by dummy's first trump, then lead South's nine and it is now up to him to take an immediate club finesse. When that works he must cash his ace and king of trumps. Then he leads a club to the ace and runs a third club.

today in brief

McClure seeks extension

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, is co-sponsoring legislation to continue nutrition programs for the elderly.

Noting that "millions of older Americans" were dependent on the benefits of this program, McClure said "to allow it to end automatically and abruptly would be a cruel blow."

The programs are scheduled to automatically end July 1 and McClure is seeking a one-year extension.

Guard head protests force cut

BOISE (UPI) — Maj. Gen. George B. Bennett, Idaho adjutant general, wants to reduce the National Guard and Army Reserve strength would be a dangerous move.

Bennett said that any reduction would increase the risk to national security to "perplexing levels."

Drastic post-Vietnam reductions in the size of the nation's active military forces, he said, already has brought U.S. military power down to borderline levels.

Bennett criticized the Department of Defense for ordering elimination of 27 Army National Guard Nike-Hercules missile batteries and five Air National Guard jet interceptor squadrons.

Boise man held by police

BOISE (UPI) — A 56-year-old Boise man was held for investigation of voluntary manslaughter today in the stabbing death of Madison Lou Campbell, 57, Boise police said.

Officers said Williams killed English, 66, Boise, after the stable. Detectives said Campbell was stabbed after an argument with another man.

Campbell was found dead in the front yard of his home.

Hiker arrested for robbery

AMERICAN FALLS, Idaho (UPI) — Sheriff's deputies are dragging the Snake River for the body of a hiker who may have been kidnapped when his truck plunged into Rock Creek from U.S. 93.

Wesley J. Grandjean, 35, Pocatello, Idaho, was seen March 1 when he left Pocatello for Salt Lake City where he was to pick up a new truck to deliver Pocatello fruit to Los Angeles.

Employees of Muscoco Rocks State Park discovered the truck, just Wednesday, almost entirely submerged in the waters of Rock Creek near its confluence with the Snake River.

Judge halts dam construction

BOISE (UPI) — Federal Judge Fred M. Taylor has refused a halt construction of the half-finished Teton Dam in eastern Idaho while opponents of the structure appeal their case to higher courts.

The Sierra Club and Trout Unlimited asked for a preliminary injunction to halt further construction of the dam until their appeal is decided. Earlier, Taylor dismissed the suit they brought against the Bureau of Reclamation and the Madison Irrigation District.

Auditor seeks fifth term

BOISE (UPI) — State Auditor Joe R. Williams will seek a fifth four-year term in office.

In announcing his candidacy Wednesday, Williams said he would continue "to do everything in my power to produce all economies that are in the public interest and to serve the financial responsibility of the citizens of Idaho in the fiscal responsibility."

He said when he first took office in 1967, he was the first to introduce data processing to the fiscal accounts of the state. "I have constantly carried on an economical program of revising and updating of the state's accounting system," Williams said.

Connally tops GOP gala

BOISE (UPI) — Former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally will headline a special "Republican gala" in Boise March 30, party officials announced Wednesday.

The gala, to be held at Boise State University's Student Union Building, will feature a talk by Connally and a concert by the Men in Blue, a popular Boise big band.

Gem towns get sewer grants

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Twenty-three Idaho communities, including five in Magic Valley, have been provided reimbursable federal grants totaling $514,600 for sewage projects, according to Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho.

The Magic Valley cities and the amounts of their grants are: Rupert, $21,600; Jerome, $33,500; Fairfield, $7,300; Gooding, $2,100, and Salt Lake, $1,600.

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) made the grants available to pay 5 per cent of the construction cost of sewage projects started before larger federal shares were available.

NFO discusses bean price

BOISE — Pricebean contracts was discussed at a meeting at the Ponderosa Inn in Boise Tuesday night sponsored by the local chapter of the National Farmers Organization.

A base price of $20 per hundredweight will be sought by the farmers who attended. This asking price was agreed upon by the farmers as a good price in view of anticipated 1974 production, according to chapter president Ralph Maughan. This is about half the current market price for dry beans.

Steve Goodwin, western bean representative for the NFO, spoke to the gathering of about 35 local bean farmers. Further meetings will be announced by the organization.

Hopkins, an Idaho Falls native, has not previously been a candidate for political office. In a statement, Hopkins declared,

"Now, when public confidence in the process of government is at its lowest point in perhaps a century, it is time for all to recommit ourselves to the well-being of this country."

Chief's resignation no surprise

By ED MITCHELL
Times-News Writer

BURLEY — The resignation of Burley Police Chief Kenneth Barry was not unexpected, Mayor Charles Shadduck said Wednesday. Shadduck said he had planned to replace Barry when Shadduck took office. The action did not come until the new mayor had been in office almost three months.

"I should have gone along with my intuition," the mayor said.

The council accepted Barry's resignation following a dispute over the chief's firing of a police officer, John Walsh, last week while the mayor was in Boise. When Shadduck returned to Burley and learned of the action he reinstated the officer.

The mayor said Barry reported he had fired Walsh because of the latter's poor public relations and complaints against him by fellow officers. The subject of terminating Walsh's employment had been discussed prior to the action Barry finally took, but the actual firing came as a surprise to him, the mayor said.

"Barry's action while he (the mayor) was away, 'really got my dander up,' the mayor said.

Walsh was reinstated only until April 10, after which his employment on the force will end. The mayor's decision to reinstate the officer temporarily was confirmed by the council Monday night.

Walsh had served about 11 months on the force and had been suspended three times, the mayor said.

"I think he will have a year to have a year to give him a chance to be certified," Shadduck said.

An officer must serve a full year to be certified under the law. The City Council will not consider keeping him after that time, Shadduck said.

Barry said in his letter of resignation: "It is not possible for me or any chief to direct activities of a department or to provide the proper discipline under the conditions presently existing within the Burley Police Department.

Mayor Shadduck has unwisely usurped this authority completely. This department has had the finest group of officers any city could wish for. The greatest harmony has existed throughout the entire department.

Unfortunately, Mayor Shadduck has succeeded in destroying this harmony and efficiency.

Barry said.

Mayor Shadduck said Chief Barry ran the force "as far as himself as he let it go."

He said: "There was no way he (Barry) could give it up. I tried to convince him the chain of command is important."

The mayor said there is no one on the force at this time capable of assuming the position of chief because no one had access to records or was trained to take over command of the force while Barry was chief of police.

The council's police committee was reorganized Monday night from a four-man committee with the mayor as head to a three-man committee headed by councilman John Croft, the mayor dropped from the committee.

The committee will act as liaison between the council and the department.

City Manager William Parsons said Wednesday, "I think the thing is in the right posture now. The purpose in reinstating (Walsh) was correct."

There had been a question of the legality of the mayor reinstating a member of the department on his own account. This was resolved when the council voted to affirm the mayor's action, Parsons said.

The vacant position of police chief is expected to be filled by someone out of town, Mayor Shadduck said.

Officer Walsh said he has "no comment at this time" regarding his termination.

Budget set in Jerome

JEROME — The Jerome City Council adopted a $1,861,000 budget for 1974, 19.4 per cent above last year's $1,560,000.

There were no taxpayers present to protest or question the budget figures during a public hearing just prior to the regular City Council meeting.

The new budget includes $168,187 in revenue sharing funds, $51,000 of which is an unspent amount from 1973 and will be rebudgeted this year.

The newly-approved budget includes an overall 10 per cent pay increase for city employees. The general fund budget reflects upward trends from $182,400 in 1973 to $206,563, or an increase of $24,174.

The largest general fund increase is in the law enforcement and crime prevention budget which is up $10,000. The police department's budget is up $1,000. As in most departments the increase is due to salary increases and this includes addition of one full-time officer.

SV meet set

SUN VALLEY — Amtrak and EPA will be among the topics discussed at the quarterly meeting of the Pacific Northwest Regional Governors' Commission Friday in Sun Valley.

The meeting will be attended by Idaho Gov. Cecil D. Andrus; Gov. Tom McCall of Oregon, and Gov. Tom Evans of Washington.

Gov. Andrus serves as state co-chairman for the commission with Jack Padrick serving as federal co-chairman.

The meeting is scheduled to begin at 3 p.m. at the Sun Valley Inn and will conclude about 5 p.m. Other agenda topics include the energy offices for the three states; forest service management of the national forests as well as a review of two on-going studies, including toxic exports and regional waste management.

Buhl project

Spring start on Rupert sewer work

By ED MITCHELL

RUPERT — Rupert's long-awaited street sewer bridge finally started this spring.

Engineers' plans for the project were shown at the Rupert city council meeting Tuesday night by Frank Liebrock, representative for Hamilton and Voeller, the Portland firm which is doing the project for the city.

Liebrock, a planning engineer for the council, had asked the members to submit any necessary changes before final plans are drawn. Work is to begin on the final plans immediately, with a target date of March 28 for completion.

The project calls for laying about two miles of sewer line and will require two months to complete. The line itself will be laid at a depth of nine feet with lift stations set 14 feet deep.

The major problem in building the sewer may be the subwater level, according to Liebrock. The water is currently at a level 8½ feet below the surface and must be corrected to rise as irrigation starts, making construction difficult.

Liebrock said a delay could occur in getting the approval of Union Pacific to take the sewer line under railroad tracks, at one point. "Experience has shown that nothing is immediate" in dealing with the railroad company, he said. "It requires a plan in tunnel under the tracks to lay the line."

If all goes according to plan, the city will advertise for bids on April 10.

The council discussed a city electricity rate increase because of an expected 27 per cent increase in the price of wholesale electricity by the Bonneville power Administration. Rupert will not be affected until 1975.

The installation fees for residential water meters will be increased from the current flat rate of 10 cents per month to a tiered pay-for-use system. Average installation now costs the city about $205. "We should do it 'cause but we shouldn't lose anything on it," Councilman William Strasser said. Customer costs will be set on a "pay-as-you-schlep" according to the cost of materials used.

Three new police patrolmen were approved by the council for hiring, they are Lance Scholtz, Hal Duley and Ronald Huntel.

The assessment roll for Local Improvement District projects was approved by the council.

The ordinance will permit the city to collect revenue to pay for street surfacing in the Grandview Addition of Rupert.

NEW 40-foot culvert was laid Wednesday by Buhl Highway District crews on a country road about two miles east of Buhl just off Highway 20. The culvert carries water from an irrigation canal. Crew members said the old pipe was worn out and the site had become hazardous.

Canyon park planned

Cookson, who met Wednesday with Twin Falls County Commissioners, also discussed work plans for a campsite site at Salmon Falls Dam.

The project is a joint one between the HLM and the Salmon River Canal Co.

Cookson said the contract for about $124,000 has been awarded. Murchison Construction Co. will expand the boat dock and ramp its share of the project and the Canal Company will provide a caretaker.

Cookson said traffic counters will be maintained to keep the agencies involved posted on areas which is expected to be heavy.

During the construction period, expected to continue through November, efforts will be made to provide access to the water at all times possible, but he said the company will work around the clock for the completion of the development.

The ordinance is scheduled for around April 8 with developments of wildlife habitat and providing for rehabilitation of "mined-out" areas, permitting oil and gas leasing over the entire area with restrictions to protect scenic quality, and allowing removal of building stone and architectural boulders from only those areas not determined to have aesthetic value.

Death of girl, 6, brings SV suit

HAILEY — A $576,000 suit, approximately the size of a bouldering formation, was unlodged from the hill striking Jeffrey, a glancing blow, and striking Kimberlee in the center of the scalp.

The complaint states that Kimberlee subsequently died en route to the Moritz Community Hospital.

The complaint alleges negligence against each defendant and, in each count, states that as a result of the defendant's negligence, the plaintiffs have been deprived of their deceased child's services, society and companionship.

Sought in the complaint from each defendant is $150,000 in general damages and $1,600 for hospital, doctor, funeral and transportation expenses.

In a second cause of action, the complaint seeks $50,000 in punitive damages from the defendants and $4,000 in damages for "emotional distress."

The plaintiffs also demand a trial by jury.

The complaint was filed by Keckum.

Wooden warns N.C. State

Walton's back in top form

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — UCLA's John Wooden put North Carolina State on notice Wednesday that Bill Walton is ready for the Bruins' NCAA playoff game with the Wolfpack Saturday.

"Bill became himself about two weeks ago," recovering fully for the first time from a back injury suffered earlier in the season, Wooden said in a telephone news conference.

"For a long time he did not have the pep he had prior to the fall," he said. "For a while he became the quiet type. His leadership was not that apparent in practice. In practice he's generally a great influence on the rest of the team."

Now he has it back. Walton, an awesome 6-foot-11 All-America center, will lead second-ranked UCLA against the top-ranked Wolfpack at 3:30 p.m. EDT Saturday in an NCAA semifinal game.

The other semifinal match, at 10:30 a.m. EDT, pits fifth-ranked Marquette against 10th-ranked Kansas.

Coaches of all four teams special telephone hookup with sports writers who already have gathered for the playoffs.

Wooden said the Bruins' performance has improved since their back-to-back losses in February to Oregon State and Oregon, upsets that knocked UCLA out of first place in the ratings.

"We've used our high post offense a little more and it has worked real well," said Wooden.

North Carolina State will be out to avenge its only loss of the season, an 81-80 defeat by UCLA last Dec. 15, but Wooden doubts the Wolfpack would have any psychological advantage over the Bruins.

"I believe you can discount that game," he said, adding, "but I would rather be in the position of having beaten a team by a substantial margin before than to have lost to them by a substantial margin."

Wolfpack coach Norm Sloan was delighted that All-America David Thompson performed well and to no ill effects from Tuesday's notice his first since a 10-game suspension last year.

Sloan, who has a 10-1 record, requiring 15 stitches.

When the Edsel forward first came on the practice court, Sloan said, "All of us were trying hard to act like we were not watching him, but we were."

"When he dunked one I felt like cheering," Sloan said. "We were all watching more than we wanted to admit."

Kansas coach Ted Clegg reminded the writers that the UCLA-North Carolina State contest, although the center of interest, is not the only game being played Saturday.

"We're not thinking about the UCLA-North Carolina State game," he said. "All our thoughts are preparing for an outstanding Marquette team."

The Jayhawks earned a sectional berth by edging past Oral Roberts 93-90 in overtime in the Showdown Regional.

Abdul-Jabbar received 74 first-place votes from 100 league players and a total of 320 points. He also received 11 second-place votes and 35 third-place votes.

With only a handful of games left in the season, Abdul-Jabbar stands third in the league in scoring, second in shooting average, and second in blocked shots. He has scored 2,801 points in 76 games for an average of 36.8 points per game. His point total is topped only by Meadowlark Pete Maravich of Atlanta.

He has averaged 8.8 shooting from the floor, topped only by Meadowlark, who blocked 3.8 shots per game. Abdul-Jabbar received 74 first-place votes from 100 league players and a total of 320 points. He also received 11 second-place votes and 35 third-place votes.

Abdul-Jabbar, known as Lew Alcindor, was an All-American every year, including 1968-69 national championships. A product of Los Angeles City High, he is 27 years old next month.

Players name Abdul-Jabbar as NBA's most valuable player

NEW YORK (UPI) — The guys who have to face him have voted him NBA's most valuable player. But, the "Most Valuable Player" in the National Basketball Association, the league announced Wednesday, it was the third time in his five-year professional career that he has won the NBA's most valuable player award. Maurice Podoloff, the league's top player.

This time he got the nod over Bob McAdoo of Buffalo, the league's leading scorer, with Bob "Jumper" of the Detroit Pistons third and center Dave Cowens of the Boston Celtics, the 1970 winner, a distant fourth.

Quarterfinals resume in NIT Thursday

NEW YORK (UPI) — The quarterfinal round of the surprise-filled National Invitational basketball tournament at Madison Square Garden will conclude Thursday with a pair of games in which Boston College is a slight favorite over Connecticut, and Utah is a similar choice over Memphis State.

Jacksonville and Purdue won the opening pair of quarterfinals Tuesday night and Memphis State will play Saturday afternoon when the other, 10th-seeded, pair, the winners of Thursday night's game, the finals are Sunday afternoon.

Boston College (19-14) advanced through the opening round when it nipped Cincinnati 53-52. The Eagles, who will enjoy a height-advantage over four of the five starting positions against their New England rivals, the UConn, are hoping to reach an NIT final for the second time. They lost in the 1969 window.

Connecticut (19-17) scored a 62-54 win in the first night game, John, a win somewhat dampened by the fact that St. John's top player, Ed Scarce, played with an ankle injury and took no shots. The UConn, labelled in that game, the tournament's top candidates PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't be impatient now because you are not operating as you feel you should. If you import a new car, you will be pleased.

IN YOUR CHILD'S HORNS (TODAY) — He or she will need much love and devotionately in behalf of herself. Confidence here is to be built up sufficiently to make a successful life. The educational curriculum should be ideal. Teach early to complete whatever has once been started. A good family life is very important to your progeny.

"The Stars impel, they not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

What's What

L. M. Boyd

Great South for talent. March. Gifted fellow born in this month include Michelangelo, Luther Burbank, Alexander Graham Bell, Albert Einstein, Heinrich Heine, Johann Sebastian Bach, Arturo Toscanini, A. E. Housman, Benj. B. Bird, Francisco Goya, Robert Frost, Rene Descartes, Joseph Haydn and that big brave boxer of yesterday, Jack Johnson. A list like this should be overlooked that this is the month when most frogs lay their eggs.

No creature anybody can figure out exactly why the murder rate in this country is more than six times that of Canada. And why it's more than 10 times that of just about any country in Europe. Can you?

It has not been reported often enough that romance is the only sport wherein the animal that gets caught has to buy the license. I think.

ALLIGATORS

O. Who's responsible for the fact that we're rapidly running out of alligators?

A. Men, with powerful flashlights, probably. Alligators, like other nocturnal beasts, tend to freeze when scared in by beams of light in the night.

O. Can a lady lawyer properly follow the name on her briefcase with the word "law"?

A. No, that's about as appropriate as the gentleman lawyer who names himself "Mr."

"Who's Primrose Day?

A. That's April 19. Anniversary of the death of that famous British Benjamin Disraeli. Devotees of the conservative cause in England for many years wore a primrose on that day because Disraeli once said it was his favorite flower. Disraeli, you may recall, was the old boy who slept in at least four different beds every night. And gave as his excuse the notion that body heat collected in the case overlying could be harmful to the health, imaginative, I'll say.

CAMPUS LAW

The law in South Carolina makes it illegal to "act in an obnoxious manner on the campus of any girls' school without permission from the principal." But the record shows hardly any requests to principals for such permission.

Researchers in England report their studies indicate far more boy babies than girl babies are conceived during the first month of marriage.

You don't send chrysanthemums in Italy. They're the symbol of death there.

Hottest months at the Equator are March and September.

Market Review

Gem spuds gain

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened higher today in light trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers were gratified that the market moved upward during Wednesday's trading, despite the increase in the prime rate posted by a number of banks. Bankers Trust began the action with a one-quarter increase in its prime rate, followed by the market opened Wednesday and several other banks followed. Some, however, said, they would hold their prime rate—the percentage charged favorite customers, at 8% per cent.

Shortly after the opening bell, the Dow Jones industrial average gained 1.50 to 873.90. Advances outnumbered declines 203 to 171 among the 300 issues traded.

Volume was 530,000 shares in the early minutes of trading. Oils and motors were mixed.

five years in the Idaho State penitentiary Friday following a conviction of a felony drunk and driving under the influence.

Fifth District Court Judge
